

CONTRIBUTORS

Heather Bastian graduated from Lafayette College in Easton, PA in May 2003. Heather, an English major and Psychology minor, graduated summa cum laude and received honors in English for her thesis “Style in Composition.” She will be attending West Chester University to obtain her teaching certification and Master’s degree for Secondary Education (English), and then she plans to attend graduate school for composition studies.

Mara Brecht attends Oberlin College and expects to graduate in May of 2004. Her majors are history and religion, with concentration on the experiences of women in both these areas. She is currently working on a Senior Honors Project in religion.

Matthew Bunce graduated May 10, 2003 with a B.A. in English Writing and Rhetoric from St. Edward’s University, Austin, Texas, where he was awarded a membership to Kappa Gamma Pi and runner-up for English Writing and Rhetoric student of the year (2003). During the course of the spring 2003 semester Matthew presented this paper at the Symposium of Undergraduate Research and Creative Expression at St. Edward’s University. His future plans include attending Michigan Technological University as an M.S. candidate in Rhetoric and Technical Communication, fall 2003, and continuing his scholarship in the field of rhetoric, technology and literacy.

Amber Carini graduated from UC Berkeley in May 2003 with a major in English and a minor in Creative Writing. A writing tutor for four years, she currently works at a distributor of independently published books in Berkeley, CA. Her future plans include pursuing an MFA in Creative Writing.

Jennifer Corroy will graduate from the University of Wisconsin-Madison in the spring of 2004 with degrees in English, History, and Environmental Studies. She is an Undergraduate Writing Fellow and has served for one year as the program's Undergraduate Assistant Director.

Lindsey Harkness graduated from Lafayette College Easton, PA in May 2003. Lindsey majored in English and minored in Government/Law. She recently completed an editorial internship with Rosie and Family Circle magazines. Her plans for the future include attending law school and pursuing a career in publishing and First Amendment Law.

Sarah Haufrect will be graduating from UC Berkeley in 2004 with a major in English and a minor in Creative Writing. She is the editor of the literary magazine, The Berkeley Fiction Review, as well as the program director of Democratic Education at Cal (De-Cal)-a program that facilitates student-coordinated courses on the UC Berkeley campus. She plans to pursue a career in the publishing industry.

Lindy Hockersmith is a 2003 graduate of Elizabethtown College in Elizabethtown, PA. Lindy obtained a B.A. in English with a concentration in professional writing. She graduated cum laude and with honors in the major. Lindy plans to attend graduate school for English at Kutztown University in the fall of 2003.

Zachary McMahon is an English major at Illinois State University where he is also the Assistant Editor of the forthcoming 7th issue of Mandorla: Nueva Escritura de las Americas/ New Writing from the Americas. He will graduate with a B.A. at the conclusion of the Fall 2003 semester.

Bina Patel graduated from UC Berkeley in December 2002 with a double major in English and Economics. While at UC Berkeley, she spent two years working in several capacities as a writing tutor at the Student Learning Center. Currently employed at a benefits consulting firm, Bina plans to attend graduate school to study something related to writing or language in the next couple of years.

Andrea Ruiz graduated from UC Berkeley in May 2003 with a major in Rhetoric. A writing tutor for three years in various capacities at the Student Learning Center, she plans to work for Making Waves, an organization dedicated to preparing urban youth for a college career, while she searches for a Ph.D. program that will incorporate her passion for teaching writing and her fascination with Critical Theory and Semiotics.

Nithan Sannapa graduated from UC Berkeley in May of 2003, and is off to Cambridge fall 2003.

Kate Stuart attends the University of Missouri—Kansas City and expects to graduate in May 2004 with a degree in English Literature. After a two-year hiatus, she plans to attend graduate school, where she will focus on history of reading/the book and popular culture of early 20thcentury American Literature.

Carl Yost is a 2003 graduate of Messiah College with a B.A. in English. He will be attending Penn State in the fall of 2003 as a candidate for an MFA in Creative Writing, with an emphasis on Poetry. He also plans to continue backpacking in the mountains of Pennsylvania and wherever else he can go.

